Course Modules
Questions	Answers
How do I apply to take the FDIS Diploma in Fire Doors?  Who are the course modules suitable for?	You can study for the FDIS Diploma in Fire Doors via our online education programme and can sign up via the FDIS website. The FDIS Diploma is a series of education modules, which you can study in your own time. At the end of your study, you can sit the final exam at a Pearson VUE test centre near you.  The FDIS diploma is ideal for any fire safety professional, health and safety consultant, building inspector, facilities manager or employee within the fire door industry.
What does the FDIS Diploma cover?	<ul> <li>Foundation module - provides a basic understanding of fire doors and their components, including testing and certification, regulations and standards, inspection and maintenance.</li> <li>Timber fire doors and frames - provides a more detailed look at timber fire and escape door sets, their construction, installation and functional performance.</li> <li>Metal fire doors - provides information on how steel doors differ from timber doors, how they are tested, glazed, installed and maintained.</li> <li>Glazing - provides detailed guidance on the different types of fire-resistant glass, glazed apertures, glazing retention systems and beading and the importance of getting it right.</li> <li>Seals - provides detailed information on the function and technology of intumescent, acoustic and smoke seals, how they're identified and installed.</li> <li>Ironmongery and signage (Part 1) - covers why each type of ironmongery is essential, critical issues about installation, how to check it is functioning correctly and when the</li> </ul>

	<ul> <li>Ironmongery and signage (Part 2) -         covers essential and non-essential         ironmongery, the requirements for         panic escape mechanisms and signage         on fire doors.</li> <li>Transition module - only for Diploma         holders who wish to proceed to         become an FDIS Certificated Inspector.</li> <li>Each module looks at the relevant regulations         and standards that apply to fire door         components and how certification is crucial to         compliance.</li> </ul>
When does the course start?	The course is only available online and as soon as you pay for the course you are granted access.
How long does it take to complete the course?	You have 12 months to complete the diploma and exam. However, completion time will be dependent on the individual. Some people may take the full 12 months, others may complete the course in 2-3 months. It will depend on you and your learning style. The exam is 65 minutes long.  You have 12 months to complete the FDIS Certificated Inspector Course. It can take 6-8 weeks to arrange the Certified Inspector assessment as it is carried out by a third party.
Can I transfer the course to a colleague?	No, once payment has been made for an individual, the course modules are nontransferable.  The FDIS may consider a transfer request under special circumstances, where the modules have not been accessed and sufficient time remains. This decision will be made on a case by case basis, by the FDIS Scheme Manager.
Is it possible for a company to hold the FDIS	No, the certification is only applicable to the

Exams & Onsite Assessments
Questions	Answers
Is there a Test Centre near me?	Yes. The exams are held at Pearson Vue test centres. They are a Global company with testing centres all around the world.  To find your nearest test centre please go to https://home.pearsonvue.com/gai
What does the FDIS Exam entail?	The exam consists of 50 multiple choice questions. You have 65 minutes to complete the exam.
What is the pass rate for the exam?	You will need 75% or more to pass.
I failed the exam, Can I see my papers or get any feedback?	No. Unfortunately you cannot see your exam papers or get feedback on where you failed, as we need to protect the content of the exam to protect the integrity of the scheme.
Do you provide the Onsite Assessment site?	No. You will need to provide the site for your Onsite Assessment. This can be anywhere you have access to (e.g. Workplace, Office building etc.) that has a minimum of 10 Fire Doors of different types.
What does the Onsite Assessment entail?	The Onsite Assessment will be carried out by Third party assessors. You will be asked some questions based on the course content and then assessed Inspecting a minimum of 10 Fire Doors.  You will then be told if you pass or failed and given feedback.
How long does the onsite assessment take?	The Onsite assessment normally takes half a day to complete.

Benefits of the FDIS
Questions	Answers
What do I get when I become a FDIS Certificated Inspector?	You will receive a FDIS Certificate and Inspector card. You will also be entitled to use the designation Cert FDI, as well as use of the FDIS logo on your website, letterhead etc. Certificated Inspectors will be provided with protected access to the FDIS website and inspector database area and may then purchase FDIS Door labels which are used on each inspected door.
	You will be then be free to practice as an FDIS Certificated Inspector in accordance with our Code of Conduct. Each inspection undertaken by an FDIS Inspector is reported to clients in the same format via the FDIS website database. This requires a complete inventory and unique identity of all fire doors on the premises. A detailed report on the condition and functionality of each door is loaded onto the database by each Inspector. Any required remedial work will be undertaken by the client's own contractor or by other recommended specialist contractors.
Why should I become a FDIS Certificated Inspector?	FDIS Certificated Inspectors can carry out onsite inspections of installed fire doors in existing or new buildings. This is an essential part of any fire risk assessment required by law to be done by a building's Responsible Person.  If you don't want to trade as a professional fire door inspector, you don't have to take this next step after achieving the Diploma. But if you want to provide a professional service to building owners and others who need a survey and advice on fire doors - and if you want to be listed on this website - you need to be a FDIS Certificated Inspector.
Answer continued on next page	This involves completing the online Transition Module, and then submitting your practical inspection skills to the close scrutiny of our independent assessors at Exova Warringtonfire. They will check that you are applying your Diploma knowledge: demonstrating an understanding of the importance of carrying out accurate inspections as well as providing clients with high quality feedback and professional reports. Being a FDIS Certificated Inspector confirms that you have been independently assessed to meet the FDIS standards. Certificated Inspectors are entitled to use the designation CertFDI. All Certificated Inspectors work to a Code of Conduct. By lifting your knowledge levels to that of a certificated professional, you will be playing your part in enhancing life-safety measures in buildings all over the UK. We provide a protected logo that approved inspectors can use to advertise their
